Anthony's practice centers around the firm's Estate planning and Administration Group. He assists families with a wide range of estate planning needs, from establishing a new plan to updating an existing plan for a changing family dynamic. He drafts simple and complex wills, general trusts, advanced health care directives and powers of attorney. He also advises on asset protection planning.

In addition to general estate planning needs, he also guides clients through the specifics of probate and non-probate matters, as well as planning in regard to minimizing income, gift, Federal estate and state inheritance tax.

Anthony also practices within the firm's Real Estate Law Group, assisting with transactional oil and gas matters. Prior to joining the firm, Anthony drafted certified drilling title opinions and conducted title abstracting for oil and gas exploration and production companies operating in the Appalachian Basin.
